

Musicians & businesspersons make the mix that keeps Tokyo vibrant

Clockwise, from top, left: Our Partyliner Bill Hersey poses with Gwen Stefani and the band of rockers called No Doubt; at a party hosted by Warner Bros.' man-in-Japan Bill Ireton. New York City's entertainment website tycoon Michael Bolanos recently visited the Mikan and was feted at a reception at the Lex. Model John, Kumi Suzuki, model Doug, Michael and Shoji Hayashi pose for Party Line. Kumi and Shoji work at the Roppongi 55-Minute DPE. Good people! Jakob Dylan, Bob's talented son, poses backstage with Tracy Alloway; Jakob led his band the Wallflowers in concert not long ago. Jun Mokudai, Vice President-Japan for Northwest Airlines paid a courtesy call to Chikage Ohgi, newly appointed Minister of Land, Infrastructure and Transportation. In the photo we see Jun, Ms. Ohgi and Tommy C. Ma, NWA adviser. R. Romula A. de Los Reyes, Director of the Philippines Bureau of International Tourism Promotion; Hideo Takahashi, President of Kintetsu International; Philippine Minister Ernesto C. Castro; Prudence Tours President Olive Kawaguchi, and Philippine Airlines Country Manager for Japan and Korea Genaro "Bong" Velasquez. At a ceremony in which Reyes presented Takahashi with an award for his contributions to Japanese tourism in the Philippines.
